No Lenten ceasefire with Reds

By DELFIN FORCADA

There will be no suspension of military operations against communist rebels nationwide during the Holy Week.

There is no tradition of a Lenten ceasefire. There is nothing on the books that says so.

The reinforced Presidential Division on the Three Forces remains on duty during Holy Week.

Alfonso Padilla, chief government negotiator with the communist rebels, says the government and the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) will continue to negotiate.

The general talks are at a second session but I had just ended with my counterpart last a couple of weeks ago.

The government declared an 11-day suspension of military operations against the New People's Army (NPA) the second week of the CPP at December 2012.

Since this experiment had to wait until the Seattle fire started to regulate the truck, it was then a waste, and only three times a day at other large centers in the trial.

One of the 39 bills approved by the Senate, the farm-aid bill, had received more than 100 cosponsors in the House, the largest vote under the AFMA, the eight-vote principle. Just an interim step, says a Senate farm lobbyist, the bill would allow the USDA to make a study of the farm situation and report back to Congress in 1990.

Employers
Confederation
of the Philippines

Protect 2 million jobs in large-scale mining under 1995 Mining Act. Plug tax loopholes in small-scale mining.

Recognizing the legitimate large-scale mining industry's efforts and good track record in generating employment and promoting industrial peace, the Employers Confederation of the Philippines supports the continued growth of the minerals development sector under the Philippine Mining Act of 1995.

We are deeply concerned over controversial proposals to convert mining areas into mineral reservations in order to increase taxes on large-scale mining, which, studies show, already provide its fair share in mining revenues. This proposal is causing uncertainties among local and foreign investors and it may be important for our policy makers to consider the proposal's injurious impact on jobs and livelihood of workers in the mining sector.

We suggest that before levying additional taxes on the heavily regulated and closely monitored large-scale mining sector, our policy makers should first plug the tax collection loopholes in small-scale mining operations. Many illegal miners in this sector have been identified by the Mines and Geosciences Bureau and the Bureau of Internal Revenue as having deprived the government of billions of pesos in revenues.

National government must harmonize the laws governing regulation, control, and supervision of small-scale mining to address the conflict between the Department of Environment and Natural Resources and the local government units and to ensure technical competence in dealing with fiscal, health, and environmental issues facing the mining industry. Most importantly, government must protect and preserve the existing two million direct and indirect jobs in the Large-scale mining sector and enhance the potential for more employment opportunities for our marginalized brothers and sisters.

Our country should not waste the opportunity to benefit from its abundant God-given mineral resources by prioritizing short-term revenue generating goals over the long-term growth of an industry. Mining is already contributing significantly to our country's socio-economic development and it is well-positioned to contribute more if only it is allowed to grow following the principles of Responsible Mining under the world-class 1995 Mining Act.

Gov't plans to release bulk of this year's budget in H1

The Duterte administration is trying to release bulk of this year's budget in the first half of the year as part of efforts to boost spending.

Budget and Management Secretary Florencio Aldeguer said the release in the first half of the year would significantly be higher than releases in the second semester. This, he said, would help agencies take advantage of the good weather to start their infrastructure projects.

"So overall, to say we're not a performance-driven department to make the bulk of our releases within the first semester of the year may be very government-driven, but it's not government-driven, it's the weather in the country that is the driving force behind the release of the budget in the first half of the year," Aldeguer said.

The Department of Budget and Management said yesterday it has released 70 percent of this year's budget for 2012 agencies to start following up on all of the projects to be implemented in the first half of the year.

Aldeguer said the government has to release 70 percent of the budget by the end of the first semester.

Phil, Indonesia to sign deal strengthening defense ties

By Alan SIKSING

The Philippines and Indonesia will sign an agreement that seeks to strengthen their defense ties through bilateral cooperation in the areas of intelligence, training, counterterrorism, and maritime security.

The signing of a Framework Agreement (FA) was held during the second day of the annual bilateral talks between the Philippines (AFP) and the Indonesian National Armed Forces (TNI) in the Indonesian capital Jakarta last week.

The signing ceremony was held at the 2nd Jakarta International Conference Center (JICC) in the Duta Pahlawan, Ministry of Convention Center and is led by Chief of Staff Gen. Romeo B. Andara and Chief of Staff Gen. Agus Suharto.

The event, which was hosted by the Indonesian Ministry of Defense, was also attended by Philippine Secretary of Defense Antonio Trini Jr.

AFP Commander-in-Chief Gen. Romeo B. Andara and the Indonesian National Armed Forces Chief of Staff Gen. Agus Suharto signed the FA during the ceremony.

The FA, which is expected to be signed within three months, will further strengthen the cooperation between the two countries in the areas of intelligence, training, counterterrorism, and maritime security.

It is also a landmark agreement for the Philippines and Indonesia, as it is the first time that the two countries have signed a defense agreement.

The FA will be signed by the two countries' defense ministers, Gen. Romeo B. Andara and Gen. Agus Suharto, and will be signed by the two countries' presidents, Benigno Aquino III and Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono.

helps youth promote change

Health leaders play a critical role in promoting positive youth development. North-South linkages, they can implement plans to help promote change in their communities, to foster an environment that encourages positive health habits. To improve diets in communities, for example, youth leaders from health teams in education and urban development settings North-South health education for a positive future.

Disinfecting health-care facilities is crucial to keep the spread of disease from getting out of control, says David A. Clark, director of the Laboratory of Environmental Health Sciences, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. "It's the only way to prevent the spread of disease from getting out of control," he says. "It's the only way to prevent the spread of disease from getting out of control."

In the study with teachers, the most striking finding came in a sub-study in comparing them to female citizens from the same city by age. The study will be in their parties and activities in all training challenges that are accompanying the course, in which they are. Finally, with their background with a focus on the study but participants will gain wide knowledge in social, political and economic aspects of society. It is important to see in this knowledge study, if female teachers have a different culture.

U.S. EMBASSY IN AMMAN: A TALKING POINT
The U.S. Embassy in Amman is a small, modern building, built in 1991. It is a two-story building with a flat roof and a large, open courtyard. The building is surrounded by a high wall and a gate. The gate is made of metal and has a sign that says "U.S. EMBASSY". The building is located in the center of Amman, near the city center. It is a busy area with many people and cars. The building is a symbol of the U.S. presence in Jordan and the Middle East.

Message (of hope) in a bottle

By Mark Harris, Editor

Bay Area residents are used to being given a message in a bottle. When the Bay Area's largest newspaper, the San Francisco Chronicle, was recently hit by a massive fire, the message in the bottle was a simple one: "We are sorry."

The fire, which started in the paper's printing plant, destroyed the plant and the paper's main office. The paper's publisher, John S. Hays, said the fire was a "catastrophic loss."

Despite the challenges, the paper's publisher, John S. Hays, said the paper's future is bright. The paper's publisher, John S. Hays, said the paper's future is bright.

KELLY ROWLAND

After getting her name called for Goodies (Sony Music), Rowland, 26, was in the studio in March when she had a gig. "We did not just sing, but we had to dance the morning away," she says. "I was so happy to be there. I was like, 'I'm going to be a star!'"

With a publicist who was paying her to sing, she was like, "I'm going to be a star!"

She began playing an important part in her life and career. It has been an experience. She says she was in the studio for a long time, and she was like, "I'm going to be a star!"

Some may argue that the people's movement is a threat to the state. But the state is not a monolith. It is a collection of different interests and power groups. The people's movement is a force that can challenge the interests of the ruling class and the state apparatus. It is a force that can bring about a more democratic and just society.

That's correct. I put together what our experience says about the way they're working, and Mike Jensen, Microsoft's chief economist, says:

Portugal is the only country in Europe with a high birth rate, and Portugal has the same rate as other countries in the world — 14.5 per 1,000 live births, according to the World Bank. The country's population is 10.5 million, and it has a high unemployment rate of 12.5 per cent.

But they are not in what their faces show together as truth: how they "find" art." In other words, considered as Art, the face becomes and Wahrheit, while waiting for their discovery by it to flourish, to appear, to "show" its true pattern, (James H. Johnson, "The Negro Renaissance and Its New Art," in The Negro Renaissance and Its New Art, in the Encyclopedia of the Negro).

¹ See, for instance, Journal of Interpersonal Violence, 1999, 14(12), 1329-1340, showing that women and men are equally likely to commit or be victims of intimate partner violence.

And now, a mobile phone to monitor your heart

Dr. J. V. Anderson, MD

In the past, heart disease patients had to visit a doctor or a nurse to get a blood pressure reading. Now, thanks to a new mobile phone app, patients can monitor their blood pressure from anywhere, anytime. The app, called "Heart Rate Monitor," is available for download on the Apple App Store and the Google Play Store. It allows patients to take their own blood pressure readings using a compatible blood pressure cuff. The app also provides a visual representation of the patient's blood pressure over time, allowing them to see trends and make adjustments to their lifestyle as needed.

The good news is that it is now possible for patients to monitor their blood pressure at home, which can help them catch any problems early and avoid a hospital visit. The app also provides a visual representation of the patient's blood pressure over time, allowing them to see trends and make adjustments to their lifestyle as needed.

Heart disease is the leading cause of death in the United States. It is important for patients to monitor their blood pressure regularly to help prevent complications.
